

On the Move: Navigating the Future of Road Transport

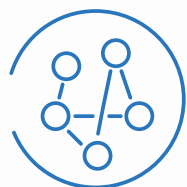

The following document outlines additional information to the full On the Move report. Below are statistics found per market across the UK, Germany, Netherlands and Spain.

% consumers concerned about climate change

% think that autonomous taxis will be commonplace by 2050

% think door to door journeys will be commonplace by 2050

% think there will be a fully electrified vehicle network by 2050

% consumers think that bikes and scooters for shorter journeys are a faster way to travel by 2050

% think owning a car is important to them

% will use a mixture of car clubs and ride sharing services by 2050

% believing autonomous taxis for lone or shared journeys will be commonplace by 2050

